

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to novel assays for the identification of agents that inhibit the catalytic activity of PTPbr7. The invention also provides pharmaceutical compositions comprising such agents identified using the assays of the invention. The invention further provides methods of treatment comprising administering such pharmaceutical compositions.

...